This is a table setting for outdoors, literally "in the cool". Typically, it may be on a table, on a picnic table, the ground with an underlay, a bench or a tailgate. A setting can be casual or semi-formal. This exhibit will represent the theme and will be on a table either with a tray or a mat under the setting. Therefore, plastic or paper to china and stemware could be used. Here balance is of upmost importance due to the potential of wind being involved.

The tray or mat should be no larger than 14" by 21". The exhibit should be functional and well-balanced. Generally, it is for one person. Each component should be well-proportioned and in scale with one another since the area can be quite small. Do not over crowd. Select only the serving pieces needed for the meal. The flower design, which is required, should be small and flowers in scale to the container and other components. The overall effect should present harmony. No food or flatware is placed.
